In the event that Germany wins on the western front, the dispatch says, she will begin new war against Russia, co-operating with the Finns. Japan, it is added, will occupy Siberia. It also joins in the German-Finnish alliance.

(By Associated Press)
Washington, April 13—The senate resolution embodying the plan of the war department to put the draft quota basis on the number of men in class one instead of on state population, was adopted by the house today by a vote of 325 to 13. Representatives Gordon of Ohio and Huddleson and Burnett, Alabama, voted against it.

24 KILLED IN PARIS AIR RAID

(By Associated Press)
Paris, April 13—Twenty-four persons were killed and 62 others wounded as the result of the German air raid last night on Paris. It was officially announced today.

(By Associated Press)
London, April 13—The Germans made an attack last night west of Merville on the northern battle front and were repulsed, the war office announces. The British advanced their line slightly in the neighborhood of Festubert, and took a few prisoners. There was heavy fighting last evening near Neuve Eglise and Valenciennes and the battle here was still in progress at a late hour last night. Strong enemy forces launched an attack early last night east of Locon and succeeded in entering the British lines at certain points, but were ejected by a counter attack. A second attack, attempted later in the night at the same place was beaten off.

Paris, April 13—The Germans last night renewed their attacks upon the French position in Brute Wood in the forest of Apremont. American troops in conjunction with the French, says today's official statement, have combatted with vigor and broken the majority of the enemy attacks. At one point where the enemy obtained a footing he was thrown out by a counter attack. On the Somme battle front the entire village of Hanguard and the adjoining cemeteries have been regained from the Germans.

With the British Army in France, April 13—Further attacks on the British right wing between Givenchy and Robecq on the La Bassée Canal yesterday, wholly failed. Two attempts made late in the afternoon to capture Locon were repulsed. The British also counter attacked around Givenchy and took an important German post. The city of Rheims is in flames. The French are attempting to limit the burning area, working under a heavy bombardment.

U-BOAT ATTACK UPON MONROVIA

(By Associated Press)
Washington, April 13—A German submarine of the latest sea-going type on April 10 appeared in the port of Monrovia, the capital of Liberia, on the west coast of Africa, and bombarded the wireless and cable stations there, the state department has been informed in an official dispatch.

The submarine threw scores of shells from her deck guns into the wireless station, causing extensive damage. She had just turned her attention to the cable offices when a steamer was sighted passing the harbor mouth. The submarine left in chase and did not return.

Liberia is a negro republic with a population of between one and two million. It declared war on Germany August 4, 1917. Relations had been broken previously, but the war decision permitted the internment of many German merchants and others who had been accused of unneutral activities.

GERMANS AGAIN RAID LONDON

ENSLAVE BRITISH PRISONERS

London, April 12.—How British prisoners of war in Germany are enslaved, starved and subjected to untold cruelties is related in an official report of a government committee made public today. The detention and employment of non-commissioned officers and men captured on the western front says the report, "have brought on these prisoners an amount of unrelenting suffering for which it would be hard to find a parallel in history." The report shows that prisoners have been employed constantly under shell-fire and that many have been killed by British guns; that they have been kicked and beaten, denied clothing and adequate shelter; that they have often been shot, and that deaths from starvation and overwork have been constant. French prisoners have been subjected to the same treatment. Some of the prisoners received neither letters nor parcels for eight or nine months. Last November there were in the Limburg station between 18,000 and 20,000 undelivered parcels for British prisoners.

ACTED FOR THE INTEREST OF HOLLAND

United States Replies to the Protest of Netherland Government on Dutch Ship Seizure

(By Associated Press)
Washington, April 12.—America's reply to the recent statement of the Netherland government protesting and denouncing the United States, was made public tonight in the form of a memorandum from Secretary of State Lansing, a copy of which was sent to the Netherlands embassy.

TERMS FOR IRISH HOME RULE

London, April 12.—The new "Home Rule" bill, modelled on the report of the Irish convention, will provide a much larger measure of autonomy for Ireland than at present, without imposing any impediment to the union.

This was indicated today in the letter which Sir Horace Plunkett, chairman of the Irish convention, sent with the convention's report, explaining the method of compromise by which the various provisions were reached. Neither the report nor the provisions of the bill themselves have yet been made public.

No Bar to Draft
Sir Horace made it plain that nothing in the new bill prevents conscription to maintain Ireland's quota in the imperial forces.

John Dillon, successor to the late John B. Morley, at leader of the Irish Nationalists declared in the House that the British government was already acting on this understanding. He charged that motor cars, machine guns and tanks were already being shipped into Ireland to assist the "barbarians" to that country. He protested strongly against what he termed the government's "collective methods."

His charges shared interest with the forecasts of the "Irish government of Ireland" contained in Sir Horace's letter. These indicated that most important of all, Ireland would continue to be represented in the British Parliament thus providing for the justice of British parliamentary action applicable to Ireland.

It was this provision—as well as the government does not question the legality of the act, Mr. Lansing devotes time to demonstrating that it was an act of necessity, resulting from Germany's menacing attitude which has prevented Holland from fulfilling her agreement with the allies, and that the action of the United States and Great Britain have been for the benefit of the ship owners of Holland.

contribute to all the costs of the imperial service—that provided for the enforcement of conscription in Ireland by act of the British Parliament, without violation of the principle of "representation by the governed."

Selected by Parliament
These Irish members of the British Parliament, it was understood, would be selected by the Irish Parliament.

The bill, however, as a reservation of the power to the British Parliament, through the members of the House of Commons, in power of the two houses was not specifically outlined.

The lower House of the Irish Parliament, by an agreement reached by the Irish Nationalists and the Southern Unionists in the convention, must be at least 40 per cent Unionist.

Over matters of local interest, in legislation not affecting the interests of the empire, these two Irish houses are to have complete control.

Customs Sore Spot
The imposition of customs, however, was a sore spot in Ireland, must be decided by the imperial government under the new bill. What other economic and industrial exceptions were made to the power of the Irish Parliament have not yet been indicated.

What veto power over Irish legislation is retained by the crown, or how it shall be exercised, was also not indicated.

The compromise, by which the majority of the delegates reached the report of the Irish convention, Sir Horace declared was unprecedented in Irish history.

He left no doubt that Ulster formed a dissenting minority to the majority report. In fact, he declared that the Ulster Unionists refused to have part or parcel in an Irish Parliament.

Besides this sharp cleavage, other specific agreement that Ireland should discontinue its still more difficult to reach a majority report, notably that between the Nationalists and the Southern Unionists. This disagreement, however, was finally smoothed over by the provision of a 40 per cent representation in the lower house for the Unionists.

In his letter Sir Horace made no reference to the other division, outside the convention, between the Sinn Féin and the various factions represented in the convention.

Estimates of the strength of Sinn Féin, even before the announcement that conscription would be enforced in Ireland, while varying as to actual numbers, yet placed the total in figures large enough to warrant serious doubt as to the possibility of satisfying a majority in Ireland with a self-government measure at the cost of conscription.

The Sinn Féin refused to accept representation in the convention, failing assurances that whatever the agreement reached, whether providing for "Home Rule" within the government, or for an independent government in Ireland, the convention's recommendations would be accepted by the British government.

In his letter, which is addressed to Premier Lloyd George, Sir Horace says the customs question became one of the vital points, and that upon a decision regarding it depended the extent of an agreement which could be reached. The geographical position of Ireland imposed restrictions regarding naval and military affairs, and the claim for home rule was concentrated on the demand for unrestricted fiscal powers.

PAIGE

The Most Beautiful Car in America

The "Preferred investment"

The wise man selects his motor car investment in much the same way that he selects a first mortgage bond or any other high grade security.

He looks for permanent, enduring quality—not mere surface veneer. He looks to the integrity of the manufacturer, the critical expressions of the average owner and the history of the product over a period of years.

It is on this basis that we would have you consider the Paige.

From the standpoint of initial cost, our's is not a cheap motor car. There are many cars on the market that sell for less money than the Paige and we could readily build them ourselves if we considered that the best policy. But we don't.

We firmly believe that self-respect, comfort, and enduring satisfaction have an actual market value. So we build those things into our product.

We take just a little more time—just a little more care in the selection of materials—just a little more pride in our work. And the result is a real motor car—not a makeshift or compromise.

In brief, while we agree that first cost is an important consideration, we are convinced that Ultimate cost is vastly more important.

We believe that the only true test of economy is twelve months of hard, grueling service on the road.

We believe that freedom from repair bills and excessive depreciation is infinitely more desirable than a mere catch-penny list price.

These are our convictions. We have held to them staunchly during many fitful periods in the motor car industry. So long as the Paige Company is a factor in the making and distributing of motor cars, we shall continue to adhere to them.

And it is because of these convictions, and their practical application to manufacturing, that the Paige car is regarded as a "Preferred investment" in every automobile mart of the world.

Can Well Afford to Wait.

In Brockton, Mass., a few days ago a lecture was delivered by Prof. George C. Whipple of Harvard, who has been in Russia with the Red Cross mission, on the subject of compulsory military training in the public schools, which the Legislature is now considering. At the conclusion of the lecture the Public Forum, before which it was given, went on record against the proposed system of training by an almost unanimous vote.

Since the beginning of the war there has been more or less agitation in favor of universal military training and compulsory training in the public schools, the contention being that the country should keep itself in a better state of preparedness for war than it has in the past. Side by side with this agitation goes the claim that if the Allies are victorious in the present struggle, as they are bound to be, this will be the last great war; that the nations of the earth will recognize the folly of attempting to adjust their differences by force and will settle down to the pursuits of peace with a resolve to live as civilized men should live.

It is quite possible that there is some dreaming among those who are looking for this outcome. The war is not going to change human nature and it is entirely within the range of possibility, and probability, that there will be wars in the future as there have been in the past. Yet it ought not to be too much to expect that civilization will progress as the world grows older and that the tendency will be away from war rather than toward it.

It would seem that the war now in progress should be sufficient for the present, and that the country might well give its whole attention to it until it is brought to a righteous conclusion. There will be time enough afterward to consider conditions and the outlook for the future, and to decide whether it is necessary or wise to put all of the boys and young men of the country under compulsory military training. The United States has managed to take very good care of itself in the past without recourse to this expedient, and if the outcome of the present war is to be a long step toward permanent peace among the nations, as many believe and sincerely hope, this would seem to be the wrong time for any movement in the direction of militarism.

The country has its hands full at present, and it would seem to be the part of wisdom to finish the work in hand before devoting attention to a subject which may have a very different aspect after the war is over.

"Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." The country is now in the throes of war. It is thinking war, reading war and talking war to the exclusion of practically all other topics. The war will end and the atmosphere will clear in time, and when that time comes it may be found advisable to study the pursuits of peace rather than the arts of war. At any rate, it will be possible to consider calmly a proposition which may well be postponed until the present engrossing and grievous task has been disposed of.

A National War Labor Board has been created to adjust labor disputes affecting war business. The employers will be ably represented by Ex-President Taft, and the representative of the public will be Frank P. Walsh, who was selected by the employees. It is only to be hoped that the work of the board will meet expectations, as it must if all parties will stand by the agreement which they have entered into.

The car in which Mr. McAdoo is traveling about the country in aid of the Liberty loan is for the time being the headquarters of the government railroad administration. But when he steps out on the platform to whomp it up for the loan he appears as secretary of the treasury. A very busy man is Mr. McAdoo.

There is said to be a shortage of cowboys on the western ranches. It is explained that many of them have entered the army or become "movie" actors. Can it be that any of them have worked their way up to the position of packers?

Governor McCall and the Massachusetts Legislature have been formally condemned by the Boston Central Labor Union for their stand on prohibition. But the stand has been taken and the condemnation will not change matters.

The maple sugar season is practically at an end. It has been a fairly good one, and there never was a time when the contribution of the maples to the country's stock of sweets was more needed or more appreciated.

General Wood warns this country not to imagine it has an easy enemy in Germany. And similar advice might properly be addressed to Germany with reference to the United States.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

At 100 Per Cent
(From the Philadelphia Public Ledger)
Every dollar subscribed to the Liberty Loan is a dollar invested in American industry.—General Pershing.
One of the few perfectly safe investments that bring large returns.

The German Objective
(From the New York Times)
To destroy or capture, or disrupt and disorganize great masses in the field, is the strategic purpose of the German General Staff. It is the key to what Hindenburg means when he says that "our plan is devised on a great scale."

Lonely Among Patriots
(From the New York Herald)
Mr. George Creel is welcome to all of the "dying day" pride he can extract from the fact that this country was not prepared for war after nearly three years of warning. Other residents of this country glorying in that brand of pride either have been interned or should be.

A Sample of German Humor
(From the San Francisco Chronicle)
German humor on the battlefield is a very gruesome thing. The idea of liberating British prisoners and sending them back so that the bombs concealed in their knapsacks will explode just as they reach their friends may cause Prussians to laugh heartily, but nothing so measures a man as the things which cause him laughter.

Loyal Americans Not Criticized
(From the Brooklyn Standard Union)
In the course of a Liberty Loan speech, Samuel Untermyer said that loyal American citizens of German birth ought not to be criticized because of their feeling or sympathies as between the two belligerents before we entered the war. Nobody criticizes loyal Americans for anything. It is very easy to tell a loyal American of whatever racial descent, while those German sympathizers who rejoice in the advance of the Kaiser's armies are sufficiently outspoken to reveal themselves and disclose their malice against this country. So the whole matter really settles itself. Nobody is ever considered a pro-German by mistake. He puts himself in that class.

NAVY YARD NOTES

Big Tank at Boston Yard

The tank Belfanna for her final "stunt" in Boston made a sudden raid upon the Charlestown navy yard yesterday and stayed for half an hour. The unwelcome visitor rolled through gate number four and rolled slowly up to the bandstand, where Commandant Rush and his officers were standing. As the tank came to a halt, the marine guard, while the band played "The Star Spangled Banner" and "God Save the King."

Then the Britanna proceeded by the band and the marines started around the yard. As she moved onward the workmen came out of their shops and followed in her wake, many of them bearing placards with inscriptions by no means complimentary to the Kaiser.

After the procession headed by Lieut. A. A. Gathmann, had reached the parade ground the tank began some intricate evolutions, while the five thousand workmen looked on.

Thirty-Five More.

Thirty shipyard's helpers and five electrical workers were called by the Industrial Department today.

MITZI IN "POM-POM"

Henry W. Savage rather exalted himself when he presented Mitzi in "Pom-Pom." His name has been so associated with the unusual stage "days" he gave the stage "Woodland," with his leading characters all "birds," his "Pilsen" and dozens of other feelings, all of a new and "different" style that it was not believed he could continue to avoid the commonplace. "Pom-Pom" as a play is almost continuously of novelties. Its first stage picture is "behind the scenes" with its ballet girls in tartan skirts flitting about the theatre greenroom; it changes swiftly to a somber prison yard to which the famous Joseph Urban has given an appearance of solid reality that makes it seem incredible a prisoner might escape. But an escape is made by Mitzi as the trouper (urban) Pom-Pom. Again the trained theatre-lover finds cause for surprise as one of the most striking and deftly of the most technically difficult of Mitzi's acts in the act of scaling the high wall in the half darkness.

In the second act Mr. Savage, instead of gorgeous gardens or the brilliant breath of the to-be-expected-comic opera has had Mr. Urban paint for him a "Tidepool" in a flat of colors, and here Mitzi encounters probably the strongest chorus that ever trail the boards. The first-liners are "band about-liners." Directly behind them, a row of postulate Mothers with children in arms, with next a division of "beggars" decorated "Please Help the Blind," followed by a rearranged of "wooden-legged orphans."

In these surroundings Mitzi moves with startling rapidity of incident to entertain. An Apache dance with much of its native savagery is in evidence, and a suggestion of a Country Circus not easily forgotten afterwards are seen, and when the awaited opera waltz comes it is given depth and power by a baritone mezzo-soprano instead of the usual tenor and soprano. "Pom-Pom" has been classed as the first melodramatic comic opera to come with a chain of circumstances that builds the heart action of its characters as frequently as any of the "crook" plays of recent years, yet it would not be like the Henry W. Savage of old if fluttering femininity that could sing and dance and big stage pictures for a story with much humor had been left out, no matter how far his hand for novelty, and all these, too, are found to be promised in the word that has permeated Mitzi, smallest of great prima donnas, in "Pom-Pom." Mitzi and "Pom-Pom" will come to the Colonial theatre today, April 13, for both evening and matinee.

Cross to provide an immense number of these packets and the allotment for the Portsmouth chapter and material for making them will be sent very soon. It is hoped that all the regular workers will be present and many others who would like to help in this most important work. The evening class on Tuesday, April 15, will be limited, but held as usual on April 23.

With our American boys in the trenches it seems as if the appeal for Red Cross workers should bring a larger response than ever before. There are many faithful workers who give much of their time, but more help is always needed for this great work.

GOLD WATCH FOR REV. F. J. SCOTT

Parishioners Present Gift to Retiring Pastor on Friday Evening.

Rev. F. J. Scott had charge of the prayer meeting at the Methodist vestry last evening, and although the adverse weather conditions kept some at home there was a good sized gathering of parishioners. It was the last opportunity to meet their former pastor, who had worked so earnestly for the good of the parish for the past three and a half years.

At the close of the service Rev. Mr. Scott referred to his pastorate which had just closed and said the associations of pastor and people had been very pleasant and he had enjoyed his work in this city. He then spoke of the new pastor, Rev. Rollin S. Tuttle, who is to take up his duties at the church on Sunday, and said he hoped the parish would work as earnestly in the future as in the past, that his prosperity may continue.

At the conclusion of the benediction James H. Smith asked the gathering to be seated and, turning to Rev. Mr. Scott, he spoke a few words of appreciation in behalf of the parish. Mr. Smith told of being the first one of the parish to meet the retiring pastor three and a half years ago, upon the occasion of his coming as a substitute preacher at the Methodist church, he having gone to the station to meet Mr. Scott. Mr. Smith told of the able ministry of the retiring pastor and then said the parish wished to give Mr. Scott a gift as a tribute of appreciation of his able work and presented him with a handsome gold watch. "The gift was a great surprise to the recipient but was received with marked appreciation and pleasure and he thanked the donors most heartily for the gift and the kindly feeling that had prompted its bestowal."

Harry A. Hilton, treasurer of the church, then presented Mrs. Scott with a bouquet of cut flowers in behalf of the parish, and she responded in a pleasing manner.

A social hour followed and refreshments of fancy wafers, chocolate and vanilla ice cream were served by the Methodist society.

Rev. Mr. Scott goes to Concord today to take up his new duties as pastor of the First Methodist church of that city. He returns on Monday and on Wednesday his family will go to Concord to reside.

One hundred years ago today the United States flag in its present form, with 13 alternate red and white stripes and a star for each state in the Union, was first raised.—Boston Globe.

ALEXANDER NOT CALLED IN DRAFT

(By Associated Press)
Lincoln, Neb., April 12.—A statement from K. C. Bakesly, clerk of the Howard County exemption board, was issued tonight that Grover Cleveland Alexander, the famous pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, has not been notified that he will be called in this draft to serve his country in the army.
Earlier dispatches had Alexander on the list called for the draft.

SPORTING GOSSIP

The men in the weather is anything but favorable for the school baseball squads and candidates of pro teams putting in intensive training for the opening of the diamond season. The only fortunate phase of the game is that the opening day with most teams is a week away but every day has been made to count in rounding out team work.

Mike Vokel, the middleweight champion wrestler, came east some weeks ago, passed the title around to the various New England middleweights for short periods, and then defeated them in their turn. By returning to his home in Boston, Thursday night, Mike eliminated the last of the bunch. Vokel is now ready to start for his home in Salt Lake City. A well known sporting writer remarked some weeks ago that Mike could win any two of the New England middleweights in the same evening. At the rate he went through the bunch, looks as if he is capable of doing it.

Homer Trueman, (The Oxford Bear) the best wrestler in the state of Maine, will do no more grappling for some time. Trueman is confined to a Lewiston hospital as a result of an operation for appendicitis.

Lack of candidates caused Harvard's withdrawal from the U. A. A. military marathon run (Patriots' Day). The chances for a favorable showing by the Harvard team were considerably weakened by the resignation of Dennis P. O'Connell from the track squad to enter Red Cross work in France. O'Connell was captain of the freshman relay team.

Joe Stecher of Nebraska, who invented the scissor hold, will again grapple with Straughter Lewis. These two mat stars will meet at Madison Square Garden, April 25 in a match to a finish it is announced by Promoter Jack Curley, who has the signed articles of both men. This will be their third meeting for the wrestling title. On both former occasions they went to a draw. In their last match the men were on the mat over five hours.

Dartmouth, Technology and Yale are the only colleges appearing in the drawing for the U. A. A. relay races. Hanover will send teams for the mile and four mile relays and also in the mile relay for free-hugon. Tech's entry is in the two mile relay and Yale is in the four mile.

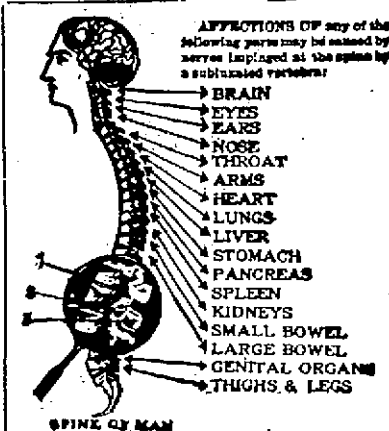

Sawyer, the old Exeter star at second base, is one of the fastest fielders on the Yale nine but has yet to find his batting strength.

A boxing program will be staged at the Quamhegan Park Casino on the evening of April 25th, Fast Day. The Dover promoters announce that the program will include boxers from Portsmouth and from ships now stationed at the local navy yard.

John Kilonis, the Manchester wrestler, defeated Soldier Kirtan at Portland, Me., last Wednesday night. Kilonis weighed 164 and Kirtan 152.

Very seldom indeed does a bout in which Johnny Wilson is principal go more than a few rounds. Johnny lived up to his name as a brief worker in his bout with Frank Carlucci at Newport recently. The New York man claimed he had been fouled and Johnny was disqualified. Wilson meets Leo Houck in a return engagement at Chelsea Monday night. The Lancaster man has agreed to make 102 pounds for Wilson.

BIG LEAGUE GAMES START NEXT WEEK

(By Associated Press)
New York, April 13.—The coming week will witness the opening of another major league baseball season with the playing of the initial games in the American and National League schedules for 1918. Although circumstances and the draft have caused many players to change their diamond uniforms for either those of the army or navy, the prospects point to the carrying on of the game this summer with the same keen rivalry that has marked the sport in past years.

Considered broadly there appears to be about the usual distribution of playing talent and strength as in former pennant races for where one club has improved its combination another has lost one or more of its formidable players, thus in a general way, evening up the situation. In the National League the Cincinnati, St. Louis and Chicago teams on paper, at least, appear to be stronger than was the case twelve months ago. The New York club, winner of the 1917 pennant, does not strike the class students of the game as being quite as impressive as last season, while both Brooklyn and Philadelphia are scarcely as strong as a year ago.

The Chicago White Sox stand out as the ranking favorite in the American League for the combination will begin the season fully as powerful as when the team closed the 1917 campaign with the double laurels of pennant winners and world champions. Among the other clubs the New York Yankees are undoubtedly stronger in every department with the exception of "pitchers," than was the case last year. The Boston Red Sox are more or less of an uncertain quantity yet many of their followers expect them to be the surprise of the league. Cleveland, Detroit and Washington are about up to the standard of last season if not a trifle stronger while the Philadelphia Athletics with a number of youngsters in the lineup cannot be figured upon in advance.

In considering the prospects of the coming season the executives of the two major leagues take cognizance of war time conditions in relation to baseball yet are confident that the national sport will not decline in quality of play or in its hold upon the followers, since patriotism and recreation are necessarily connected at this time. In a statement especially prepared for The Associated Press, President Tennis gives his views as follows:

Baseball, in common with all other outdoor sports in my opinion, should be encouraged in times of war as well as in times of peace. Baseball really had its origin during the Civil war when soldiers in that great conflict benefited themselves physically and in spirit by engaging in this then new game. This was true with the soldiers in our war with Spain, as it is true with our brave boys today who have enlisted under the colors and are either in the camps here or at the front in France.

From the very inception of the present war England has realized that to keep her soldiers fit they must be given opportunity to indulge in their favorite sports, and by government appropriation, the country has used a large sum of money for the purchase of athletic paraphernalia for use of the athletes of her army. President Wilson has given every encouragement to, and in fact has urged, the continuance of all sports during the war.

Under the selective draft or conscription act, professional baseball players are called into the service of their country precisely the same as all those in other professions and walks of life, and have answered, and are just as ready to answer the call either by enlistment or draft as other patriotic citizens but until that call comes, they must, as they should, continue to earn their livelihood in the profession which gives to them the greatest compensating return and in which they are most expert. Many players have enlisted and under the operation of the draft law baseball has furnished its quota.

We all realize, especially at this hour the pressing call that is upon each of us to aid our country in doing all in our power to quickly furnish men and means to combat the enemy and to en-

MITZI IN "THE SPRING MAID," ONE OF THE MOST FREQUENTLY STAGED THEATRICAL PICTURES KNOWN.

The theatre-going public knows their players better than it did a generation ago—their best roles their style. Many an occupant of an orchestra seat miles from Broadway is as capable a judge as to whether a certain star would fit a new dramatic character as the New York manager who risks his success on the venture. Because Henry W. Savage chose Mitzi as the star for "Pom-Pom," and Mitzi had done successfully, so many styles of thing, the public has shown great interest in her apparently different selves. It is said that more letters have been written to producer Savage about Mitzi in "Pom-Pom" than about all the dozens of other players and productions together.

The Mitzi who last appeared in "The Banned Remedy" was considered to be of the sublime type, usually reserved, but still as sensitive to be combed as was Della Fox of former times, but the Mitzi of "The Spring Maid" discovered a personality of piquancy and dramatic charm all out of proportion for one so small. It had almost abysmal. In decided contrast was the tiny dress in a "Sari" self-reliant, a comeliness to her finger tips who made the public realize how great a scope there was for a leading dramatic actress in the best of comic opera.

And now Mr. Savage again has taken what seemed the long chance in daring to let Mitzi in a small piece of a new style that has already had its followers on later works. It is called "Pom-Pom" and is regarded as a melodramatic comic opera, for its story has moments quite as tense and exciting as in any of the "burglar" cycle of plays and its crooks are much more numerous and ingenious as well as being of musical tendencies. The support of a theatre-goer who remembers Mitzi of earlier days and now sees her at the unrecognizable, sometimes grotesque, sometimes piquant, "Pom-Pom," has been voted most extravagantly. She turns from the most wistful of sentiment to impish mischief as the breeze blows, and the true gima don't quality of her musical members do not seem possible to one who has just so apparently revealed to the broad humor of the "Apache Dance" and her out-shining of the thieves themselves. As Mitzi's costume changes strikes the change, in trousers she is a rogue of a boy who out-straits past memories of stage girl-boys. In her petticoats she personates the fascinatingly feminine, and in the moments both skater and dancers are in evidence Mitzi is "dearly" her audience quite as much as does the "Evil" she sings about. There is scarcely one of her talents to a comeliness of operetta not called into play. Mitzi is considered to have grown in a few years to fill the place of an actress in our heavy handed laugh—that of an actress in comic opera.

While the Tigers are hunking baseballs in American league parks this year, the khaki clad men of Uncle Sam will be chucking hand grenades and other mediums of destruction purchased with money invested by the men of Jennings in Liberty Bonds. In less than an hour last Monday morning the Tigers pledged themselves to purchase bonds totalling $7000 in value. Manager Jennings tops the bunch with an investment of $2500, and Ty Cobb already is in possession of $1000 worth and is going to take one $1000 and one $500 bond. Everybody in the club is listed, the investments varying from $50 up to the top figure pledged by Jennings.

ARMY MUST BENEFIT OR NO HEAVYWEIGHT FIGHT

It is the general opinion among experienced promoters that unless Col. Miller agrees to let the government take 50 per cent of the profits, he will not be able to stage the Willard-Pulton bout in any state in the Union on July 4.

Already opposition to the match has developed, not only in the big boxing centers, but also in cities that are not directly interested.
The two big boxers are in very much the same situation as the late Les Darcy found himself when he came to America. Sporting men are betting even money that the match will fall through.

NO LIQUOR AGENTS FOR THIS CITY

City Council Vote Not to Establish any ---Make Appropriation for War Gardens---Other Business

The City Council on Friday evening went on record as against liquor agencies or any permits to druggists to sell liquor on a prescription. The action was arrived at after considerable discussion which at times was rather amusing over a confusion on a vote. It was however apparent from the opening of the discussion that the members of the Council were opposed to liquor agencies of any nature, and only wanted to make it impossible to establish one in this city.

Mayor Ladd brought the matter up and read the law stating that under the provision of the act it should have been considered before the first of April but legal authorities had informed him that this clause did not prevent action at this time if the council so desired. He explained that if the Council voted for a liquor agency he would have to appoint a man, that if he did he would not think of making his salary less than $1200 a year and that in his opinion it would be a bill of expense to the city, that the amount of sales would be so small that the profit would not pay the salary of the agent and the overhead expense. If an agency was not appointed the Council would vote to give a permit to a druggist, but he considered that this was nothing more than an agency with the profit taken from the city and given the druggist.

Councilman Raynes was also of this opinion and Councilmen Leckey and Humphreys expressed similar opinions. It was finally, on a motion of Councilman Humphreys, that no liquor agency be established or that no permit be granted a druggist that the confusion arose in the vote and at the suggestion of the Mayor it was reconsidered and then on motion of Councilman Weeks they voted unanimously not to establish a liquor agency or a permit to a druggist.

The Council also passed an appropriation of $500 for the war gardens at the City Farm, Mayor Ladd explaining that he considered that the money appropriated last year was the best investment the city had made for the welfare of the city. The appropriation makes the committee on City Lands and Buildings members of the Citizens Committee which will have charge of the lots as last year. There was some discussion over the question of allotting the people who had lots last year the same lots this year, as some of the members stated they had cultivated and cared for the lots and were entitled to that benefit, and Councilman Leckey offered a resolution to that effect, but it was finally left with the understanding that the committee should use their judgment in the matter and if they saw fit to give preference to those who were successful last year.

The Council passed a resolution offered by Councilman Raynes to call for bids for 500 feet of fire hose.

A resolution offered by Councilman Leckey authorized the Fire Department committee to rebuild an automobile into a hose wagon at a cost not to exceed $1000.

A transfer of funds was authorized on a resolution by Councilman Kirkpatrick to pay for the Ford auto for the Street Department and it was taken from Sewers and Extension of Mains.

A report from the Street Sprinkling District was received and accepted.

A petition of the Standard Oil Company for right to erect oil tanks on their property on Nobles Island, was granted.

The Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce was empowered to establish a free employment agency.

A report from the Board of Health asking for an increase of salary for the members of the Board, was accepted and laid on the table for further consideration.

A resolution of the Central Labor Union expressing an opinion on the proposition to exempt the property of the Atlantic Corporation from taxes, being opposed to the exemption was presented by Councilman Leckey and read. It was editorial in character and Mayor Ladd ruled that while the council would receive it, the members of the Council were elected by the people to take care of the city's interests and that the resolution was out of place and he hoped that the members of the Council would not give it any consideration, when action was asked on the exemption but to vote as their own judgment dictated.

Adjourn to the call of the Mayor.

AWAKENED BY SMOKE WHICH FILLED ROOM

Mysterious Fire at Residence of Harry W. Chick.

Miss Orintha Chick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chick of 23 Vaughan street was awakened shortly before 6 o'clock this morning by smoke which filled her room coming through the open window of her chamber. She aroused her parents who soon discovered a brisk fire in progress in the cook room located in the cell of the building. Mr. Chick sent in a hurried call for the combination auto and the call was none too soon.

The fire evidently had been burning some time and had made considerable headway in the partition. It required an hour of hard work to check the blaze and much woodwork had to be torn away by the firemen. There was no fire anywhere in the building ever night and the origin of the blaze is a mystery.

IS THE FIRST BRIDE AMONG THE YEOMEN

Young Couple in Uncle Sam's Service Quietly Marry in This City.

The first victim of Dan Cupid among the female yeomen at the navy yard is the former Miss Harriet Howard Carpenter. She is now the bride of Cecil Arthur Tucker, a telegraph operator assigned to duty at the commandant's office, Portsmouth navy yard, and a member of the naval reserve corps.

They were married on Thursday by City Clerk Louis Soule. The bride is a resident of Newmarket and was among the first women to enroll as yeoman at the Portsmouth navy yard about a year ago. The groom formerly lived in Lynn and has also been stationed at Portsmouth about a year. Previous to his enlistment he was in the merchant marine service and filled the position of wireless operator on ships running between Boston and Cuba.

They are both popular among their associates at the naval station and will make their home for the present in Portsmouth following a short honeymoon in New York and Atlantic City.

McENELLY'S ORCHESTRA ENTERTAIN SOLDIER BOYS

The Edwin J. McEnelly Singing Orchestra recently gave a free evening's concert to three thousand soldier boys at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass., and the reason there was not more in attendance was that was the capacity of the Y. M. C. A. hall where the concert was held. This orchestra has played for and entertained the dancers of Portsmouth and vicinity so many times that it is almost impossible to say any good word about them that has not been said before. We will just mention the fact to our readers that their next appearance at Freeman's hall will be Tuesday evening, April 16, under the management of William Dow, knowing that they will pass the word along and be on hand with friends, Concert 8 to 9, dancing 9 to 11. Gentlemen 55 cents, ladies 30 cents. Gallery 25 cents, with war tax paid. Remember the date, Tuesday evening April 16.
